... Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves."

It was the legendary final straw (added weight) that broke the camel's back. The same thing can happen to us, alcoholically, if we allow ourselves to become over-burdened with "the cares that infest the day." First Things First kept me from being a victim of my own folly and procrastination at the beginning of my AA membership. And it's still an invaluable guidepost in my happens, I have to make a decision. Any kind of a decision, where it's necessary, is better than doing nothing at all. I decide what particular thing I should do, or attempt, first. Action automatically follows. Should events prove, through no fault of my own, it was the wrong decision, nothing says I can't try again. That, it seems to me, is part of the main purpose in practicing First Things First. I'm so temperamentally constituted that I cannot endure a lot of "unfinished business" in my life. Doing First Things First is the best way out of difficulties for any harassed and problem-ridden alcoholic. It gains force and direction when I think of it in conjunction with the Biblical admonition: "... Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only." Naturally, the first concept of First Things First is -- to stay away from the first drink. Its other applications are simply a mopping-up process of our various daily bedevilements.

Heard it through the Grapevine

January, 2017 ..... As we enter this new year of 2017, I am reminded of the "Prayer for Peace", found on page 99 of the Twelve and Twelve. We recently read this prayer at a meeting and at its conclusion, I was struck by how selfless its thoughts and words were. My second thought was how impossible it would be for me to emulate all these seemingly unattainable qualities in my own life. And finally, my last thought was the Preamble of our program which states, "we are not saints". How alcoholic my thinking still is! If it looks like work, sounds like work, and requires work, maybe I'll just forget about it for a long, long time.

GrapeVine

But let me get out of my own thoughts on the prayer and write of those further shared at the meeting. Quite possibly we believe in our most human and compassionate hearts that we do truly wish to capture and practice the principles of the prayer. But where do we start and how can we move into action? A member at the meeting suggested starting with the very first phase of the prayer, "Lord, make me a channel of thy peace", and quite simply, endeavoring to do more peaceful things. How simplistic this thought was as well as a reminder that perhaps I don't need to tackle the entire prayer all at once. Instead I can take one line at a time, meditate on it, ask for understanding of the thought, and move through my days focusing on one principle at a time. In my desire to change my alcoholic thoughts and the way I act, perhaps I will learn more patience and understanding, how to listen more closely and less judgmentally to others and in fact grow more peaceful. When I feel comfortable, then I can move on to another principle and again practice it "in my daily affairs".

So here are the universal and loving principles contained in this prayer; love to overcome hatred, forgive in the face of a wrong, harmony in the midst of discord, truth instead of error or lies, faith in the depth of despair, light to cast out shadows, joy to overcome sadness, and a willingness to give comfort, understanding, love, self-forgetting and at last forgiveness. Perhaps you will journey through this prayer in the coming New Year and chose just one principle you would like to make your own. I write in service to you, my fellow alcoholics and sincerely wish you happiness in 2016.

Please consider a personal subscription to the Grapevine for yourself or a friend. Possibly your group has more than a "prudent reserve" in funds and you may consider buying a few subscriptions for your group to share amongst members. And don't forget that the Grapevine Website also offers extensive achieves on AA's history and writings as well as other books and items not available on AA's Website. To find information on monthly Grapevine subscriptions please go to aagrapevine.org or 1-800-631-6025.
